

About our children's programs

Our unique outreach programs for children have been very popular among schools in Tompkins County. We offer a flexible format that can include: informal discussion, questions, role-playing, games, equipment demonstrations, and videos. We aim to introduce children to disability in a non-threatening, matter-of-fact way. Children who may or may not already know someone with a disability (or have a disability themselves) can ask our speakers questions arising from their natural curiosity about new experiences.

Our message to children:
"People with disabilities can,
and do, live good lives . . .
just like you!"

Outreach Staff members can:

- ❖ Share personal experiences about disability
- ❖ Discuss appropriate words to describe disability
- ❖ Lead a role-play about offering assistance to a person with a disability, or about how words can hurt
- ❖ Demonstrate Signing Sam, a teddy bear who uses American Sign Language
- ❖ Introduce PI Bear and his wheelchair
- ❖ Play an audiotape that simulates hearing impairment
- ❖ Read an age-appropriate topical book

Why is disability outreach so important?

Because it fosters the inclusion of people with disabilities into all aspects of society, and the benefits of this are mutual:

People with disabilities have more opportunities, and people without disabilities benefit from the experience of a more diverse society.

Children learn about:

- ❖ What it is like to live with a disability
- ❖ How technology, service animals and other aids can help independence
- ❖ How to move beyond stereotypes about people with disabilities
- ❖ How to include children with disabilities in daily activities
- ❖ How all people are similar yet unique
- ❖ How to interact with people with disabilities in mutually beneficial ways
- ❖ How to be friends with children with disabilities

We look forward to designing a program or activity that most closely fits your disability awareness needs.
